The inquest on the bodies of the turnkey and two prisoners who lost their lives in the recent breaking away of prisoners in the chain gang at Konnedy Town-has now been concluded, and the public have before them, if not quite a full, at least a pretty comprehensive account of the very discreditable state of affairs existing in the Guol Department. General Gondon, the Superintendent of the Gaol, says, he is of opinion the associated system affords the prisoners too many opportunities of planning escapes. Every one knows that the confinement of prisoners in separate cells at night is in every respect preferable to the association of six, eight, or ten men in one cell. Every one knows, too, that General Gonnon is very anxious that a new gaol should be built, on a scale suffisciently large to allow of the introduction of the separate system. But that the gallant officer connot immediately have more lamentable display of incompetence has his own way in this matter cannot be ac. never been made by any Government. 2.—That they have known Sheik Halleen, u Sergeant of the Hongkong Police Force, for a number of years, and have every reason to believe that he has served Her Majesty the Empress as a Police Officer in the Hongkong Police Force for upwards of 16 years, and has during that time, by his good conduct, deservedly sarned the respect and confidence of your Petitioners and all his superior Officers, and he was on the lat September, 1881, awarded a good conduct medal. 3.—That your Petitioners heard with great egret that, owing to the said Sheik Hallsen having committed a breach of the Police regulaions, he was on the 28th day of August, 1888 deprived of his good conduct model, a reward carned after many years' hard and faithful labour and much valued by him.

4.—Your Petitioners believe that the circum stances which led your Excellency to deprive Sheik Halleen of his medal were as follows:-That his wife, who had possession of his money and valuables to the value of about $1,600, left his house, and that he some time afterwards from information he received, believed her to be in a house at Sun Wai Lane, and he immediately proceeded to the said house, and without any force or violence, made inquiries on the said premises with a view to ascertaining if his wife was there, and it afterwards appeared that she was not. 5.—Your petitioners will not pretend to shield the said Sheik Halleen from the just penalty for any breach of Police regulations, or had he by force or violence attempted to search the promises they would not thus petition your Excellandy, but it is only that your petitioners feel that the great severity and true extent of the punishment, which the deprivation of the medal has inflicted upon the said Sheik Halleen, is not fully appreciated by your Excellency, which compels them to approach you, and ask that you will view the fact that Sheik Halleen was seeking for his wife and property as extenuating circumstances in his case. 6.-Your petitioners assure your Excellency that the punishment already inflicted upon Sheik Halleen has greatly affected his health and excited him, making him almost nesit to perform his duties as a Police Officer in a propor and efficient

Your petitioners therefore most humbly pray that your Excellency may be pleased to review your decision, extending mercy to an old and a faithful servant of the Crown. And your natitioners will ever pray, &c. Dated this 19th day of September, 1888.

COLONIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE 21st September. Sir.—I am directed by the Governor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated 19th September, 1888, suclosing a petition signed by, yourself and other Indian British merchants, praying for the remission of the punishment recently awarded to Sergeant Sheik Alim for a breach of Police discipline.

In roply I am to say that having given his careful consideration to the representation of the peritioners. His Excellency finds they have been misled as to the circumstances of the case, which were by no means of the trivial character Indicated in the petition.

According to the admission of the Sergeant to the Police authorities, he accompanied by two constables, went to a private house and searched it. Whether violence was actually used must now remain a matter of doubt; the categorical assertion of the petition that it was not used having for its warrant only the statement Sergeant himself and that of of the constables who was a partaker his illugal proceeding, while on the other hand two witnesses deposed that an assault was attempted, and that there was actually committed what in law amounts to an assault. But whatever may be the case as to actual l violence, the statements of various persons that the Sergeant acted in a violent manner are corroborated by the fact that one of the two assisting constables (according to his own account given to the Magistrate) was posted at the door "chasing a crowd away;" while the use of such a force at all raises a strong presumption that something more than "enquiries" was intended from the first. It is, moreover, obvious that the Police action might easily have caused a serious breach of the peace, leading to danger one ulterior consequences, if the occupiers of the house had made the resistance which under the circumstances they were lawfully entitled to make : so that even if there was, as represented; a complete absence of violence, this cannot be regarded as a circumstance of mitigation, and was simply due to the self-restraint of the persons aggrieved. As regards provocation, if the Sergeant has rushed into the shop in instant pursuit of his absconding wife, the representation of the petition on this point would have been entitled to weight. But the deliberation of his proceedings deprives him altogether of such an excuse; and the fact that an officer of Police, in uniform, should obtain the services of two of his subordinates for the purpose of assisting him in illegal action of this kind renders the offence a specialis serious one.

The Governor has little doubt that if Sergeant Alim's action had affected one of the petitioners their indignation would bave been equally prest with that which was naturally aroused in the Chinese community, and His Excellency has still less doubt, if such an occurrence had taken place in England, that public opinion would have demanded the expulsion from the Force of the Police officer concerned.

Under ordinary circumstances the Governor would not have been satisfied with a penalty less than this, as the Police Force would quickly become a terror instead of a protection to the law-abiding community if the misuse of the moral power which attaches to their uniform were not treated with severity. Having regard, however, to Sergeant Bheik Alim's long, and previously good service; His Excellency, after very careful consideration, felt justified in permitting the mitigated pusishment referred to by the petitioners, at the same time directing it to be intimated to the Sergeant that at the end of a year the question of his restoration to all which he now loses would be favourably considered it. there should then be a favourable report of his conduct in the meantime.

It thus rests with the Sergeant himself whether at the end of the short period mentioned he is, or is not, in an equally good position as il this occurrence had never taken place; and His Excellency regrets that he is unable to modify Cameroons to Berlin. a decision which, as having caused him my pain, arrs if anything on the side of leniency. I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant. (Sd.) FREDERICK STEWART, Colonial Secretary.

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous ob-Policies issued for sums not exceeding £5,000, jects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are 14 here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size TIMBERS suitable for Wharves, Building and of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac-

> To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherte pub-
